The Face of Local Music –

Todd Novak

by craig eddy

How do you fit a book's worth of material into a small article? This month's Face of Local Music interview with Todd Novak could easily be several pages long. Todd was born in Pennsylvania and lived his early years in Ohio. He started playing guitar at 11 years old and started playing professionally at 12 years old. He picked up the electric guitar that his brother's friend would leave at their house and learned to play right handed since that was all he had to play. He would have probably learned left handed if he had access to a lefty guitar. Todd has toured all over the country with different bands. Todd was with an Ohio based band named Ronald Koal and the Trillionaires that toured as an opening band for the likes of Billy Idol, The Blasters, Berlin and Joan Jett. (continued on page 2)

Decades of Haiku Make a Book - David Le Count

(source: http://www.hmbreview.com/books/decades-of-haiku-make-a-book/article\_503980c8-325e-11e1-bf80-0019bb2963f4.html by Stacy Trevenon )

"Haiku is poetry with Japanese roots, typically thought of as three-line stanzas of five, seven and five syllables. But besides concise verse, haiku traditionally revolves around nature or natural phenomena, and its poets seek to capture a moment, emotion or revelation.

That, with a familial touch and local flavor, is what you will find in "La Honda Journal," a book of haiku poems by 19-year La Honda resident David E. LeCount...

"This is a diary of love poems - love of family, love of place, of what each new moment brings, be it pleasure or pain," wrote onetime La Honda resident and author Christopher Herold on the back cover. ..." (continued on page 2)

Treating the Restaurant Acoustics, (or "Why Can't I Hear Myself Talk in Here?") by Neil Panton

I wasn't the only one unable to hear conversations at my table. There were echoes of others with the same problem. Conversations from tables near and far were louder than the one at ours. It was nearly impossible to hold a meeting in either of the rooms. A quiet, romantic dinner was out of the question. When music started, you could either leave or listen, unless you enjoyed shouting into your companion's ear. Looking around the restaurant, it was easy to see why the acoustics were poor: windows, walls – reflective, wood floor – reflective, bare ceiling – reflective. There were no absorbent surfaces to help diffuse sound waves. (continued on page 2)

Decades of Haiku – David LeCount

“Writing and love of rural surroundings came early to LeCount, a California native who lived in Alaska, Massachusetts and China...

His prize-winning haiku have been published in the United States, China, England, Romania and, to his delight, occasionally on bottles of tea in Japan. He received a grand prize from the Modern Haiku Society of Japan and has addressed the World Haiku Festival in the Netherlands.

He came to La Honda to raise his three sons, now age 42, 36 and 32, in the same kind of rural atmosphere in which he had grown up, and continued writing haiku. ..

His books are available at Amazon.com and Barnesandnoble.com, and... in the La Honda Country Market.”

The Face of Local Music – Todd Novak

In the early 80's he was with a Countryish band called Ricky Barnes and the Hootowls where he did a lot of background singing, building his vocal abilities. The Hootowls opened for Richard Thompson and Buckwheat Zydeco among others. When asked who his favorite musicians are he says he likes anyone that has created something unique and new. Django Reinhardt, Chuck Berry, Keith Richards are some of his favorites. Todd has always been a fast learner and plays so many different styles that he has made lots of friends in the music biz. Todd moved to La Honda about two years ago with his wife Jasmine. They picked La Honda mostly due to the beauty of the area. I asked Todd to think back and tell me his most memorable musical moment. He said that without a doubt it was the moment that Pete Seeger called him and asked if he wanted to come over and jam. Todd's current band is the Cowlicks and can be seen once a month at the San Gregorio General Store and also at the Gourmet Haus Staudt in Redwood City. Todd's latest recording project Raspberry Moonshine is a mix of styles and, believe it or not, includes Ralph Stanley and the Clinch Mountain Boys among other great players. He is especially excited about this project because it just might be the last recording that Ralph Stanley does and Clinch Mountain Boy Steve Sparkman is also quitting the band to pursue a career in law enforcement. You can get your copy of Raspberry Moonshine at the La Honda market. For more on Todd check him out on Facebook. You can find him at toddnovakmusic.com, thecowlicks.com. as well as The Cowlicks Facebook page.

Treating the Restaurant Acoustics

In homes, performance venues and recording studios, surfaces are treated with materials such as curtain, carpeting, foam, baffles, diffusers, egg cartons etc. Costs range from free to ridiculously expensive. My first studio utilized layers of discarded carpeting and large cardboard egg flats from a local restaurant (unlimited supply). They were layered three deep on one wall, and allowed us to record loud electric guitar into the wee hours without disturbing the neighbors.

So, what could be done here? The windows are wonderful, don't want to cover them. The walls display beautiful artwork from local artists. Don't want to disturb that. Carpet the floors? Not so good for a restaurant, definitely not good for a bar. So, the ceilings, maybe some corners and a few bits of wall were available for treatment.

Beginning in 2010, I spoke with individuals knowledgeable about acoustics and studio construction as well as people familiar with this particular space. I also consulted with Charlie and Jane, owner and restaurateur respectively, to make sure they were onboard with the idea. I was interested in making this a community project utilizing reasonably inexpensive materials, simple design and volunteers.

The project was renewed this summer and first went public in July 2011 to the La Honda Yahoo group. Immediately, offers of help and donations came in. A small committee was formed, more information was gathered, and a simple but cost effective design was created to build and suspend acoustic panels from the ceiling.

A total of 7 were built, covering 28% of the ceiling surface area with absorbent material. In addition, Charlie repainted the ceilings and some walls, in some areas with acoustic paint (Thanks for the idea, Dana). Charlie also provided a roll-away carpet for the musician area.

The response was immediate: "I can actually hear myself talk!" was heard over and over. Acoustic measurements were taken both before and after treatment to attempt to quantify the changes, and provide a basis for any future treatment. In the meantime, we will try out the new acoustics for a while and see if more needs to be done. Although initial response to the room is quite good and there is no doubt that positive changes have been made, there may be room for improvement.

So, for those interested, here is a bit about the construction of the panels.

1)Design: Lightweight wood frames, covered with acoustic fabric and filled with semi-rigid fiberglass boards. Suspended 1-1/2 to 2" from the ceiling with hardware hooks and eyes. Can be removed for cleaning or painting the ceiling.
2)Materials: Wood was provided by Charlie, who also built the frames. The acoustic fabric came from Acoustical Solutions, approx. $26 yd. The insulation boards are Owens-Corning 703 and 705, 2'x4'x1-1/2", approx. $1 and $2 sq.ft. Misc. materials came from Jo-Ann's Fabrics.

3)Construction:

- a. Charlie delivered the completed frames to the Café: five were installed in the bar area followed by two larger panels in the dining area.
- b. The empty frames were fitted to the ceiling before covering as they were easier to handle.
- c. Craig and Jack E., with Neil P. covered the frames with fabric and stapled in place.

d. The insulation was installed in the frame and covered.

e. The frames are suspended from the ceiling.

All in all, more than 25 people assisted in this project in one form or another. Beginning July 22nd, with the post to form a committee, to November 7th, it took 16 weeks to design and complete the panel installation. A huge amount of credit goes to Charlie, who enthusiastically participated in all phases of the project. In addition to contributing all the materials for the acoustic treatment and building the frames, Charlie has invested in a number of other Café improvements; painting, lighting and outdoors. Check out the changes in the patio area!! A huge thanks to all. The rewards of living in a small and close community are huge!

“A 70-year-old man who died early Sunday morning when his car struck a tree near Pescadero has been identified by the San Mateo County Coroner’s Office as William Willett [a retired bus driver]. The crash occurred on Pescadero Road near Butano Road at about 1:15 a.m. An initial investigation revealed that Willett failed to negotiate a turn and crashed into a tree on the road’s shoulder, according to the California Highway Patrol. Willett, a Pescadero resident, was not wearing a seat belt...”

“Two juveniles who escaped from a San Mateo County correctional facility this week were captured by sheriff’s deputies and arrested later that night, along with three women allegedly involved in the boys’ escape...deputies were dispatched...to the Log Cabin Boys Ranch in La Honda, where the two escapees reportedly hopped into a waiting vehicle that sped off from the facility.

On their way to the ranch, the deputies encountered a Buick Park Avenue matching the suspect vehicle’s description, and deputies stopped the car.

Deputies found the 17-year-old boys, of San Francisco, in the car with San Francisco residents Rokesha Pineda, 21, and Angelica Pineda, 19, and Antioch resident Kelvina Burton, 18...

Deputies arrested all of the people in the car, the juveniles on suspicion of escape from custody and conspiracy and the women on suspicion of aiding escapees and conspiracy...”

Angelica Renee-Antoinett Pineda , Kelvina Burton, Rokesha Yvette Pineda, were arrested as suspects in aiding two juveniles with an escape attempt from a La Honda correctional facility

Reader's Theater* Comes to La Honda

**Play Acting without Memorization*

You don't have to have professional acting experience to take part in a "Reader's Theater" -- and, unlike professionally performed plays, you don't need to memorize anything!! I facilitate a Reader's Theater through my work and thought I might bring this fun experience to La Honda. Our first meeting will be on Sunday night, January 8th at 7PM at the Puente Office in downtown La Honda and the play I've selected is "Witness" by Karen Hesse. The play is based on the true story of a town in Vermont that in 1924 found itself under siege-- by the Ku Klux Klan. Using free verse, the play allows 11 unique and memorable voices to relate the story of the Klan's steady infiltration into the conscience of a small, Prohibition-era community. Part mystery, part social commentary, Hesse's historically accurate chronicle is a riveting catalyst for discussion that thoughtfully explores race and identity from every possible point of view. Please call (747-0605) or email me (lahondalynnette@earthlink.net) if you have questions or would like to be part of the Reader's Theater.

Company Faces Fines, Violations for Deadly Crash at Russian Ridge

(excerpt from http://www.mercurynews.com/san-mateo-county-times/ci\_19582774 by Joshua Melvin)

“A company working for the Midpeninsula Regional Open Space District was cited for two “serious” violations of state worker safety rules in connection with a deadly truck rollover crash in May.

Habitat restoration firm Go Native allowed laborers to ride standing up in the bed of a 1997 Dodge Ram and had not installed guard rails around the truck bed, according to a Department of Industrial Relations Division of Occupational Safety and Health report issued last month. The Dodge tumbled about 300 feet down a slick, rain-soaked hill at the Russian Ridge Open Space Preserve near La Honda on May 26, killing 26-year-old Luis Audelo-Partida of Newark.

Regulators ordered Montara-based Go Native to pay $21,800 in fines as a result of the incident that left six other workers injured. Go Native has appealed the penalties...”

Cuesta Guild Landscaping & Pond Remediation

(excerpt from <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/LaHonda/message/28825>)

“At the last Cuesta La Honda Guild General Membership meeting in November, there was a presentation by Kellyx Nelson & Chelsea Moller of the San Mateo Resource Conservation District. One issue was native/sustainable landscaping as purple loosestrife removal has been a problem. Another was remediating Reflection Lake (the pond) due the encroachment of lily pads, cattails, etc.

Subsequently, there was also a discussion and a presentation about developing a community garden.

*invasive species
purple loosestrife*

To address these issues, we are forming one or two committees on the topic of landscaping

(gardens) and the pond. CLHG members or expert consultants in these areas are encouraged to participate. If you have information, suggestions, or questions about landscaping/gardening or what can/should be done with the pond, please let us know. You can reply to this discussion, email me offline, or leave a voicemail [see message board for number]. We hope to have initial meetings in January (likely just before the CLHG BoD meetings - 6:30 the 4th and/or 18th). Thanks in advance for your help! Sincerely, Randy Vail”

“...The Portola and Castle Rock Foundation announced Tuesday it was kicking off a campaign to raise a minimum of $500,000 to keep open Portola Redwoods State Park south of Pescadero and Castle Rock State Park in the Santa Cruz Mountains. Both parks are among 70 of 278 parks slated for closure on July 1, 2012.

“I encourage everyone who has ever enjoyed these wonderful parks to join this campaign now,” Judy Grote, president of the Portola and Castle Rock Foundation, said in a prepared statement. “We need to raise funds in the next few months or we will lose these park jewels forever...Portola Redwoods has a rugged, natural basin forested with coastal redwoods, Douglas firs and live oaks. It includes 18 miles of trails, a 53-site campground, four group campsites and two creeks, the Pescadero and Peter's Creek. ## La Honda Fire Brigade Now Recruiting

(excerpt from <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/LaHonda/message/28713>)

"The La Honda Fire Brigade is now recruiting for its next firefighter academy class. If you or someone you know has interest in volunteering as a firefighter for the community, please contact us!

Candidates must reside in the La Honda, Loma Mar, Middleton Tract or San Gregorio communities and be able to pass a background check and medical clearance. They must also be able to accommodate interruption in daily life to respond to emergencies and attend regular training.

Firefighters are provided with all needed training, including structural and wildland firefighting, emergency medical, and many other types of emergency training. All equipment is also provided.

Volunteering can provide a great way to help our community. We also provide several benefits to those who volunteer.

For more information, visit us at www.lahondafire.org or call us at 747-0381. (contact the brigade to find out when the application process is closed)

Winds Whip Up Fire Danger

"Strong winds raised the specter of wildfire last week as a series of small fires broke out on Thursday in the coastal hills. Firefighters stamped out two separate fires that were beginning to spread into the nearby vegetation. Around 2:30 p.m. Thursday, firefighters responded to a cabin on fire at the end of Crazy Pete's Road, a rural street branching off Skyline Boulevard near Skylonda. The home was completely engulfed and strong gusts of wind had carried the flames to cover about a quarter-acre of surrounding plant life...." Anytime when you have high winds you come back to make sure it doesn't flare up again," said Battalion Chief Ari Delay. "One small ember is all it would take to become the fire it was earlier." Earlier that morning, a car driving on Pescadero Creek Road near Loma Mar caught fire after its engine began smoking..."

La Honda Spanish Classes Hosted by Puente de la Costa Sur

(from <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/LaHonda/message/28890>)

"Hello La Honda Residents,
Puente is relatively new to La Honda this year and we have been working out the kinks in our Spanish Class. We would like to invite you to our Spanish Conversation Class where we will have 2 groups:

- 1.) A beginner-beginner class where grammar and basic greetings and expressions will be practiced.
- 2.) Advanced conversation where people will speak only in Spanish for the people who are almost fluent and need practice.

We are sorry to say there are no other levels because of our limited space and available teachers. We hope those of you who have been attending return this coming January and encourage others to attend.

January 9th from 5:30-6:30pm

Location: La Honda Puente Office

8865 La Honda Rd (Suite 4), Tel. 747-0248...

Call if you have any questions.

New Book on La Honda???

I found a book with the cover shown above at <http://www.blurb.com/bookstore/detail/2769812> It is listed under the Arts and Photography category. It doesn't seem to be widely distributed or have any reviews. It probably has nothing to do with our town, but does have a nice photo on the cover.

Pescadero Home Project in Limbo

(http://www.hmbreview.com/news/pescadero-home-project-in-limbo/article\_bf62d8c0-31df-11e1-b287-0019bb2963f4.html by Mark Noack)

“...For more than 10 years, members of the nonprofit Pescadero Foundation have sought to build 14 homes just west of the town, off Bean Hollow Road. The property is considered one of the few spots near town that could support low-cost homes, and advocates point out the plot has other significant advantages... But the idea is now facing big obstacles that have brought progress to a halt. Local support has eroded based on fears that the new homes would drain the town's water aquifer... A biological study, by the firm Swaim Biological Inc. earlier this year, declared the land was a habitat for the San Francisco garter snake, a federally listed endangered species. That finding alone represented a "death knell" for the project, Peery said..."

Save the Pescadero Marsh

(info from <http://caseforourenvironment.org/>)
“The Coastal Alliance for Species Enhancement (CASE) is a community-based, non-profit organization working to conserve, restore, and enhance wetlands habitat to protect the long-term viability of native animal species in coastal areas. According to professional biologists and several fish and game experts, the State Parks renovation project on the Pescadero Marsh has created harmful conditions in the marsh, and in fact, due to poor operational practices, State Parks is actually contributing significantly to the continued decline in species population. For the past 15 years, concerned citizens and other wildlife agencies have repeatedly asked State Parks to take immediate corrective action. Sadly, the Parks department's repeated response has been “we need further studies.” Meanwhile, native species populations in the marsh have reached critically low levels.

Steelhead trout, San Francisco garter snakes and Red legged frogs all live in the marsh area. For more information, visit caseforourenvironment.org, where the issue is explained in greater detail, including an educational video. The site also has a link where donations may be made.

Bands Named La Honda

There are three bands with the name "La Honda"
1) The first English band named La Honda sang a song entitled 27 women, which was later used in a tic tac commercial. The name of the band comes from "revered psychedelic guru Ken Kesey. This Godfather of acid experimentalists boarded his magic bus from Ranch La Honda." according to this site:

<http://www.roscafen.com/LaHonda/index.htm>

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jPpCYwuC4pY> to hear the 60's influence in their music.

2) Another band called La Honda (or La Honda

Nostra) was a German gangsta rap band. The lead singer, Bero Bass, is a German rapper of Kurdish origin, who performed with long time friend OJ Kingpin. In July 2009 Bass was imprisoned for a knife attack - Kingpin left the rap business at this time.

(You can see them perform here:

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3UhwXYUFL5o>)

3) Another band, Slim Hood and the La Honda Bandits, played jazz in town and the area, up until the 1970s.
